7 high school seniors earn EWC scholarships

The Edmond Women's Club (EWC) awarded scholarships to seven area high school seniors during an awards ceremony recently at Oak Tree Country Club

Scholarship recipients are: Nia Blackwell – Edmond Santa Fe High School; Haley Jones – Edmond Santa Fe High School; Yeahwon Lee – Edmond Memorial High School ; Angelina Sibimon – Edmond North High School; Esther Sloup – Oklahoma Christian School; Anh Tran – Oklahoma School of Science and Mathematics; and, Haley White – Oklahoma Christian School.

Each scholarship recipient submitted a comprehensive application including personal recommendations and personal essay. In addition, each recipient interviewed with the members of the EWC Scholarship Committee.

Each EWC member contributes $100 per year which goes directly towards the scholarship program.

is an extremely important aspect of EWC and are funded 100 percent by our members' community dues,” said Patti Wynn, EWC President.

The mission of the Edmond Women's Club is to provide monetary assistance through fundraising efforts to qualified organizations and scholarship recipients, to provide volunteer participation in various community projects and educational opportunities for Edmond.

Edmond Women's Club

is a volunteer organization composed of community-spirited women who have combined their talents to promote the cultural, civic, educational, and community efforts of the City of Edmond. EWC provides for its membership to assist their community in financial and voluntary ways, to expand their abilities to best serve their community, and to experience fellowship with one another.
